Analysis Of Election Results Shows Republican Party In Trouble For '71

Seen & Heard Around Murray

After seeing the South Vietnamese soldiers kicking and hitting the North Vietnamese prisoners on TV the other day, we came to the conclusion that the whole lot are a pretty sorry bunch of people.

Nowhere on earth does one find such a respect, for the individual as a person, as he does in America.

We realize of course that there's a war going on.

On February 24, 1927 in the Murray Ledger, the Capitol Theatre advertised a Buster Keaton comedy, and the fourth chapter of "Fighting with Buffalo Bill".

In the same ad for the following Monday and Tuesday they planned to show Quo Vadis with Emil Jannings.

George G. Clark wanted to buy 50 little mules.

In the same issue the Murray Motor Company advertised they would trade cars for livestock.

Fresh country eggs were advertised at 18¢ per dozen, and beef roast at 10¢ per pound.

Several Murrians were leaving to attend the National Education Association meeting in Dallas. Among them were Dr. John W. Carr and Miss Pearl Jordan of the Murray Normal faculty. Harry Dulaney, President R. T. Wells of Murray Normal.

The Bon Ton Cafe urged folks to "Try Our French Dip Coffee". T. L. Smith was the proprietor.

The Murray Motor Company, advertised tires from $5.95 to $8.75.

"The most Beautiful Chevrolet in Chevrolet History" was advertised by Farmer-Purdum Motor Company. The Touring or Roadster at $525, The Coach at $595, The Coupe at $625, The Sedan at $695, The Sport Cabriolet at $715 and the Landau at $745. The one-ton truck sold for $495 and half-ton at $395.

The Ledger's Business Review Page included the Johnson-Hood Furniture Company, Thornton Drug Company, Brown Feed Company, Gilbert Doran Funeral Home, Clarence Saunders Grocery, Miller Cleaners, Peoples Barber Shop, Wear Drug Company, C. O. Beech Grocery, Farmer-Purdum Motor Company, Cable & Beaman Service Company, Murray Laundry, Hood-Moore Lumber Company, Beale & Nettlet Distributors of Murray Beauty Bread, Murray Motor Company. The J. H. Churchill Funeral Home (forty years to house of service), the Bank of Murray were the only two we can recognize today. E. S. Diuguid was president of the Bank of Murray, Ben Grogan, vice-president, W. S. Swann, vice-president.

By DREW VON BERGEN
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The Republican Party in Kentucky is in trouble.

Despite reassurances from Gov. Louie B. Nunn that Tuesday's election results "must be considered a victory," the outlook for the GOP as it heads toward the 1971 gubernatorial campaign is less than heartening.

FACT 1—Fayette County which gave Nunn a 6,000-vote majority over Democrat Henry Ward in 1967, went Democrat solidly, and with it went one-time popular Judge Joe Johnson.

FACT 2—Jefferson County which gave Nunn a 3,000-vote margin in his 1967 race, also threw out Republican incumbents, with a marked exception of a Commonwealth's attorney not aligned with Nunn.

FACT 3—While Republican managed to hold onto 14 seats in the state Senate against the Democrats' 24, they lost 15 seats in the House of Representatives, giving the Democrats a 72-28 margin.

While Jefferson and Fayette counties do not necessarily reflect the state as a whole both are areas which Republicans must count on in a statewide race.

With Democrat Judge Todd Hollenbach and Louisville Mayor Frank Burke in charge and corresponding patronage, the GOP's 6,000-vote margin in Jefferson County could easily be wiped out. Fayette County, under Democrat Judge Robert Stephens also could go into the Democratic column.

A strong bid by the Nunn administration to oust Sen. C. Gibson Downing, D-Lexington, failed, despite an expensive and well-organized campaign.

Most important of all is the momentum. The Democrats now have it and will take every measure available to keep it through 1971.

The most likely spot the Democrats will choose for this is in the 3rd Congressional District of Louisville next year. Incumbent Republican William O. Cowger who rarely sees eye-to-eye with Nunn, will be up for re-election.

With a Democratic administration in Louisville, and added jobs for Louisville citizens in the Democratic county government, the Democratic standard bearer in the 3rd District stands at least a 50-50 chance of winning.

Early rumbling indicate state Sen. Romano L. Mazzoli, who was defeated by Burke in a three-way primary last May, will seek the spot. Results of Tuesday's election, however, are sure to swell that category.

In the 6th District of central Kentucky, where Republicans have talked of a comeback lately, the Fayette outcome may have sealed their fate for another two years.

Another aspect of Tuesday's election, was the virtual elimination of two bright young Republican officeholders, as possible GOP gubernatorial nominees in 1971—Fayette County Judge Joe Johnson and state Auditor.

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

In the past several years I have had six incidents where I have had to deal with insurance companies. I have heard and read of so many complaints in regard to settlement of insurance claims. In my line of work I perhaps hear more than the average person.

I thought I would write this letter in defense of insurance with no particular company in mind.

My first incident was with State Farm in 1955. I had a wreck down in Georgia. Wasn't my fault, but was sued for $25,000 by the man I had the (Continued on Page Eight)

Apollo 12 TV Shows To Be In Color

By AL ROSSITER Jr.
UPI Space Writer

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Apollo 12's astronauts will televise their walks on the moon in color. It will mean a clearer and more spectacular show for millions on earth.

The decision to carry the newly-modified color camera on the Nov. 14 flight was made Wednesday after a three-hour test showed no signs of the black interference that marred earlier testing.

Mission commander Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr. said the color television camera should reduce the "ghosts and phantoms" that appeared from the Apollo 11 astronauts' black and white camera during their moonwalk in July.

"We didn't pick the color because it looked pretty," Conrad said recently. "We picked the color because it gives the best motion resolution."

Conrad and Alan L. Bean are to land on the moon's Ocean of Storms Nov. 19 while Richard F. Gordon remains in lunar orbit. The two surface explorers are to spend 32 hours on the moon and conduct two 34-hour excursions from their spacecraft.

The camera will show Conrad's first step on to the Ocean of Storms and it will show much of the pilots' activities as they go about exploring the bleak crater-scarred surface. Geologists will use the pictures to direct the astronauts' collecting rocks.

The 12-pound instrument has been to the moon once before—in the Apollo 10 command ship that circled the moon in May. To be used with the landing craft on the lunar surface, the camera had to be modified and that was when it developed troubles.

The first tests of the re-worked color camera with the Apollo 12 lunar module Intrepid turned up black interference. Officials then feared the camera would have to be grounded and a black and white camera was installed in the spacecraft.

But the color unit was shipped back to the Westinghouse factory in Baltimore, modified again, and then returned to the Cape for two successful tests.

10,000th Phone Is Installed By Co-Op

The West Kentucky Rural Telephone Cooperative, which serves subscribers in Calloway, Graves, Carlisle, Hickman, and Marshall counties in Kentucky, and Henry and Weakley counties in Tennessee, reached a milestone this week by installing its 10,000th telephone.

Recipients of the cooperative's 10,000th telephone were Mr. and Mrs. Roland Ballard, who reside on Fancy Farm Route 2. The Ballards, who never have had a telephone with the co-op before, are quite pleased and already are putting it to good use.

P. L. Finks, general manager of the cooperative, has announced the Ballards will receive local service absolutely free for one year by virtue of having the 10,000th co-op telephone in their home.

The cooperative was chartered in July, 1951 and received its first loan of $1,485,000 from the Rural Electrification Administration in September, 1952. The first two exchanges of the co-op went into service in December, 1955.

Since that time the cooperative has experienced tremendous growth, as reflected by the installation of the 10,000th telephone at the home of the Ballards this week.

Automatic numbering identification will be installed in all the exchanges in 1971. (When you dial direct the operator will not ask for your number; the equipment will record it automatically.)

By WALTER WHITEHEAD
SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnamese troops pushed to within 1,000 yards of the endangered Green Beret camp at Duc Lap today, attacking South Vietnamese artillerymen assigned to the outpost's defense.

UPI correspondent Nat Gibson reported from the Cambodian border region the Communist soldiers first fired a mortar barrage into the government gun base and then followed up with a strong ground assault.

The South Vietnamese threw back the attack and reported six guerrillas killed. The Allied troops lost three dead and six wounded in defending the base, one of several reported this morning. In another development, two guerrilla rockets killed one civilian in a hamlet nine miles southeast of Saigon today in the closest shelling to Saigon in two months.

Allied intelligence officers told Gibson, the objective of the North Vietnamese push apparently is Duc Lap, 120 miles northeast of Saigon. They said the plan called for a concentrated 10-day campaign.

The offensive began last week-end when the Communist troops forcing the Allies to abandon three U. S. border artillery bases. Saigon troops have been entrusted with the entire counter-offensive in a test of their readiness to take over the war.

Gibson reported South Vietnamese army reinforcements pouring into the remote, jungled plateau. The only U. S. troops involved, besides helicopter and fighter-bomber pilots, are the handful of Green Berets in the camps at Bu Prang and Duc Lap.

The morning communiques from Allied headquarters listed light fighting across the rest of South Vietnam from Wednesday.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops fired 11 overnight rocket and mortar barrages into Allied bases, including the Nha Trang airbase, recently taken over by government troops, on the central coast. Damage was reported as light.

Nunn Will Testify In Washington

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — Gov. Louie B. Nunn will testify in Washington today before the House Committee on Education and Labor regarding the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) controversy.

Nunn said he was appearing at the 1 p. m. hearing in defense of needy Kentuckians who he feels are not being served by the present OEO program.

He was in Washington Wednesday to attend White House welcome home ceremonies for the Apollo 11 Astronauts following an around-the-world trip.

Nunn returned here to prepare the necessary paper work needed in presenting his case to the committee and flew back to Washington.

The governor's statements before the committee will concern circumvention of congressional intent as to the administration of the OEO program in Kentucky.

Also, the political activities of those involved in the program, the coercion of recipients and others involved in the program and the maladministration of OEO funds.

Nunn said last month in a Washington news conference with Rep. William J. Scherle, R-Iowa, a member of the committee.

"In Knox County we had 3,100 persons on public assistance rolls. Then OEO came in and $10 million later we had 6,500 persons on the rolls. We can't afford anti-poverty programs like that."

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

A MAN WHO BELIEVED IN AMERICA

RHODESIA AND REALISM

One of the reasons that Richard M. Nixon won the Presidency is that the American people wanted a more realistic foreign policy. During the Kennedy and Johnson years, U. S. policies overseas were based on emotion, not on careful calculation of American national interests and protection of orderly, capitalist societies.

In some respects, the Nixon administration has made progress toward meeting the demands of the people for a realistic foreign policy. Some of the ambassadors selected are thoroughgoing realists who are well equipped to implement the President's policies. The Nixon administration generally has downplayed emotional considerations. Nevertheless, there are some areas where no significant progress has been made and where liberal pressures on the administration apparently still have a powerful impact.

A case in point is the Nixon administration's handling of the Rhodesian situation. Rhodesia is not the biggest country in the world, but the manner in which relations with Rhodesia is handled is indicative of basic strengths and weaknesses in the administration's conduct of foreign affairs.

Many supporters of Mr. Nixon hoped and expected that on entering the White House he would abandon outright the vindictive policy the Johnson administration adopted with respect to Rhodesia. Specifically, they assumed that he would revoke the Executive Orders under which President Johnson prohibited U. S. trade with Rhodesia, a country that has offered to send a contingent of troops to fight the communists in Vietnam.

Many of Mr. Nixon's supporters have been cruelly disappointed on this score. The LBJ Executive Orders have not been revoked. It's true that the administration has retained in Salisbury, capital of Rhodesia, the U. S. consul, over the objection of militant liberals who have made an emotional cause of humiliating and destroying Rhodesia. Yet there is no assurance whatever that the U. S. Consul will be permanently retained in Rhodesia, let alone that the United States will recognize Rhodesia as an independent, sovereign nation.

On the contrary, there was dismaying evidence in recent weeks that the Nixon administration is bowing to the fanatical liberals who want to cripple Rhodesia because it is a symbol of stable, civilized government on the African continent.

Assistant Secretary of State David D. Newsom, testifying before a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee, said the United States "is giving full support" to U. N. sanctions against Rhodesia. He added that "we have continued to recognize British sovereignty in Rhodesia and regard the Smith regime as illegal."

This is an extremely unfortunate and disturbing statement. It is completely counter-productive to constructive foreign policy moves made by the administration. There's no basis in realism for joining in the crusade of the Afro-Asian U. N. bloc against Rhodesia. France, Germany, Japan and other solid, progressive states are busily trading with Rhodesia. Giant Japanese ore carriers regularly transport Rhodesian chrome, in defiance of U. N. edicts and the British naval blockade in the Mozambique Channel of Africa's east coast. Rhodesia has been self-governing and self-supporting since 1923. It has been independent since 1965, and there is no sign that the U. N. trade ban will crack Rhodesian spirits—no more than the British assault on the 13 American colonies crushed the colonists' determination to be independent of the British Crown.

Assistant Secretary Newsom's remarks to the congressional subcommittee were absurd to

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Stanley F. Yolles, M.D., Director
National Institute of Mental Health

INSTITUTE RESEARCH RANGES BROAD FRONT

By John Eberhart, Ph.D.
Scientific Director
National Institute of Mental Health

Mental health research has been going on in the National Institute of Mental Health since its establishment in April 1949.

Long before that, there were studies of mental illness in the Public Health Service, parent organization of the Institute. In 1904, for example, Dr. Thomas W. Salmon was assigned to Ellis Island to examine mental illness among immigrants to America.

But it was not until the Institute was organized that a broad program of research was planned, to be conducted by staff scientists as well as to be supported by grants to institutions and researchers outside government.

The Institute's research program has the ultimate goal of developing effective therapy for mental illness and of discovering the nature of those processes which are intimately involved in the maximal realization of man's creative potential.

The need for our broad program of research reflects the fact that mental disorders, unlike infectious diseases, appear to have their roots in the subtle and complex processes of life experience, of heredity, and of body chemistry.

Basic studies in psychology, neurophysiology, neuroendocrinology, chemistry, genetics, and sociology are essential to gaining an understanding of the underlying causes of mental diseases. Thus, our program ranges widely in scope and character.

Psychologists, sociologists, psychiatrists and other researchers are pursuing the fundamental problems of learning and perception, of early development, and of aging. In wards and clinical laboratories, psychiatrists and psychologists are making progress in studies of schizophrenia, depression, and adolescent emotional behavior.

Despite the progress being made in our laboratories and in many others, the necessary and sufficient conditions for development of mental illness are still unknown. Nor can we yet specify the conditions in life which produce the highest level of mental health, vigor, and effectiveness.

But studies in genetics, in early and later child development, in the nervous systems, in body processes underlying body chemistry, in the interaction in families and larger social groups—all are contributing significant findings which will help to provide this needed information.

From such studies will come improved methods of diagnosis and treatment, more accurate knowledge of causes, and, finally, ways to prevent the occurrence of the widespread forms of disability known as mental illness.

'Silent Majority' Call Pleases Nunn

FRANKFORT (UPI) Gov. Louie B. Nunn expressed concurrence with President Nixon's approach to the Vietnam war as voiced in the President's nationwide televised address Monday night.

In a telegram prepared to send to the White House today, Nunn said he shares the President's deep concern for the younger brothers and sisters of men who are fighting in Vietnam as well as those who are seeking peace.

The governor said he agrees with Nixon's confidence in the "silent majority" but fears demonstrators will succeed in "drowning out the voice of reason" if this silent majority does not rally in support of national policy.

Larry Van Hoose, press secretary to Nunn, noted that the phrase "silent majority," which Nixon used frequently in his policy speech, was originated by the governor in an April 1968 address at Morehead State University.

By CARL H. MADDEN, CHIEF ECONOMIST

TOTAL PERSONAL SAVING has grown from $106 billion to $382 billion since 1955. This saving flows mainly into three kinds of institutions—commercial banks, savings and loan associations, and mutual savings banks. In the middle and late fifties savings and loan associations received about half, and commercial banks received about a third of new over-the-counter savings. In the past five years, however, the relative roles of these two kinds of institutions reversed as banks competed vigorously for these funds. Meanwhile, mutual savings banks, concentrated in New York and New England, account for a stable amount of the saver's dollar.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—It is fruitless for investors to fret about whether a recession is imminent because stocks have already discounted the possibility of a business turnaround, Spear and Staff Inc. says. The important consideration will be the slope or rapidity of the recovery move, and that, of course, "is a function of the administration's war with inflation."

Since institutional investors who turned bearish at the end of the third quarter have only two months left to recoup earlier disasters, and since few stocks really look as though they could rise up from the bottom, "it could be a wonderful market for the couple of dozen right stocks," says Hoppin Bros. & Co.

"It adds up to a simple A-B equation where A represents the (increasing) amount of money seeking immediate investment in common stocks, and B the dollar value of a (decreasing) supply of common stocks both attractive and available," the firm says.

McClain And Cuellar Tie

NEW YORK (UPI)—Flamboyant Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers and screwballer Mike Cuellar of the Baltimore Orioles wound up in an unprecedented deadlock Thursday for the 1969 American League Cy Young Award.

The award, given to the outstanding pitcher in the league by the balloting of a 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America, was shared by the two players when they each received 10 votes. Two writers from each of the league's 12 cities took part in the voting.

Jim Perry of the Minnesota Twins received three votes and Dave McNally of the Baltimore Orioles got the other vote.

There had never been a tie in the history of the awards presented by the baseball writers which dates back to 1931 when members of the BBWAA first started voting for the MVP award.

McLain, who won the award in 1968 when he posted a 31-6 record, came back with a 24-9 mark this season while Cuellar, obtained in a trade with Houston last season, posted a 23-11 mark for the Orioles as they romped to the American League pennant.

The voting took into consideration only the regular-season games and the balloting took place before the playoffs and the World Series. Cuellar started the first game of the playoffs against Minnesota and the Orioles won although he didn't get the decision. Cuellar won the first game of the series for the Orioles and started the fourth game—which the Orioles lost—but didn't get the decision. The Cy Young Award was conceived by Commissioner Ford Frick in 1956. Until 1966 there was only one award but starting in 1967, a pitcher in each league has been honored.

LAVER VOTED AWARD

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rod Laver has been voted the Martin and Rossi Tennis Player of the Year Award for the second consecutive year.

Laver, the only player ever to score two grand slams, winning the U.S., British, French and Australian titles, was chosen unanimously in balloting of an international panel of tennis writers from five countries.

DETROIT (UPI)—Six-foot-eight center Erwin Mueller, acquired from the Seattle Supersonics in a trade last week, signed a one-year contract Monday with the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association. Terms were not disclosed.

Vaught Picked As Coach Of The Week, UPI

By JAMES M. EVANS OXFORD, Miss. (UPI)—Ole Miss Coach John Howard Vaught, the nation's third winningest football coach, scoots at the idea that the emphasis on football in the Southeast has shifted from the defense to the offense.

Vaught, 60, today was named the nation's college football Coach of the Week by United Press International, the fourth coach from the Southeastern Conference to hold the honor in the last seven weeks.

He was recognized for the Rebels' 26-23 upset of previously unbeaten Louisiana State last Saturday at Jackson.

In spite of the fact that unbeaten Tennessee is now the SEC scoring leader with 215 points in six games and scoring in SEC circles generally had drawn wide comment, Vaught doesn't believe the defense is being slighted.

Has Wide Open Game "I don't think the emphasis has shifted," the coach said. "I know we spend even more time on defense and I think that's true of everybody in the league."

"We do have a more wide open game today," he said. "The personnel is better overall in all schools and the quarterbacks are improved."

In pre-season predictions, sportswriters chose either Mississippi or Georgia as the most likely winner of the 1969 SEC title.

But Mississippi stumbled early, losing narrowly (10-9) to Kentucky and Alabama (33-32), then knocking Georgia and LSU from the ranks of the unbeaten with a loss to non-conference Houston sandwiched between for a 4-3 mark at this point.

Vaught is the SEC's oldest active coach at present. He played his college ball at Texas Christian University.

Compiles 174-48-5 Record Since coming here in 1947, the Texas native has compiled a 174-48-5 career record.

With Charley Conerly leading the offense from tailback in the old single wing system, Mississippi won its first SEC championship in Vaught's first year at the helm.

He has repeated that feat six times since then—the last time in 1963—and, with Archie Manning at quarterback now, has visions of doing it again before leaving the active coaching field.

Vaught has had two unbeaten seasons, including a perfect 9-0 in 1962 and an 8-0-2 mark in 1952 while leading the Rebels into 16 bowls.

SHOULD REGAIN MOTION

CHICAGO (UPI)—Outfielder Carlos May of the Chicago White Sox, who lost the outer digit of his right thumb in an accident while in military service last summer, should regain "most of the lost motion," according to a statement Wednesday by a club spokesman.

The spokesman said the joint has been amputated but skin grafts have been made and he has received general and conditioning exercises to reactivate motion in the thumb.

TARDIF SENT DOWN

MONTREAL (UPI)—Left wing Marc Tardif was sent to the Montreal Voyageurs of the American Hockey League Wednesday by the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens.

Tardif is expected to see action against the Hershey Bears Thursday night.

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI)—Split end Paul Malliska of the University of Florida is in serious condition today after suffering a head injury in the 'Gators' 38-12 loss to Auburn Saturday.

Malliska, a senior from Winter Park, Fla., collapsed on the sidelines after being injured. Doctors are considering surgery.

CALLAND ON WAIVERS

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Steelers Thursday picked up defensive back Lee Calland from the Chicago Bears on waivers.

To make room for Calland, the Steelers cut wide receiver Marshall Cooper. Calland is in his seventh season in the NFL and has played for four teams.

Pacers Breeze To Victory

By United Press International

The Indiana Pacers showed the New York Nets Wednesday night why they are in first place and the latter are tied for last place in the Eastern Division of the American Basketball Association: Team balance.

All five Indiana starters scored in double figures and the Pacers breezed to a 104-98 victory over the Nets at New York. The Nets, who trailed several times by 20 points, closed the gap to four points with a late flurry but a field goal by Mel Daniels and two free throws by Roger Brown put the game out of reach.

Brown had 22 points and Daniels and John Barnhill each scored 17 for the Pacers, while Sonny Dove had 22 points and Ed Johnson 21 points and 20 rebounds for the Nets.

Jimmy Jones and Steve Jones scored 35 and 31 points, respectively, to lead the New Orleans Buccaneers to a 119-105 triumph over the Denver Rockets despite a 31-point performance by Spencer Haywood. Red Robbins aided the Buccaneers' cause by out-rebounding Haywood.

Rookie guard Gene Little scored eight of his 22 points in the second overtime period as the Carolina Cougars moved to a 121-109 win over the Kentucky Colonels. The eight points enabled the Cougars to break away from a 105-105 tie to a 115-107 lead. Louie Dampier scored 35 points for Kentucky.

Nicklaus Favored In Hawaiian

By GORDON SAKAMOTO

HONOLULU (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus is the favorite to win the $125,000 Hawaiian International, which opens today, but colorful Lee Trevino is the sentimental choice.

Nicklaus, who has captured the Sahara and Kaiser tourneys in the last month, can become the second million-dollar winner in professional golf history if he can take home the $25,000 Hawaiian top prize.

To date, the Golden Bear from Ohio has collected $978,974 in winnings—$122,567.42 this year—and trails golf's first millionaire, Arnold Palmer, by $97,513.

Fellow touring pros say the slimmer Nicklaus, who dropped 20 pounds while on a high protein diet last summer, is playing better than ever.

It's a different matter in the case of Trevino, the defending Hawaiian Open champ.

After winning a year ago, the cheerful Texan captured the hearts of the local fans when he announced he was setting up a foundation for the son of his friend and former roommate on the pro circuit, the late Ted Makalena.

But partisanship has nothing to do with Trevino's ability to play golf.

"I've been shooting well lately," he said, indicating that he's ready.

Of course, not to be overlooked is Palmer, who is long overdue for a tournament victory. During his practice round, with his army in tow, the Latrobe, Pa., better shot a four-under-par 68.

Billy Casper, too, is a solid contender. In the last three Hawaiian Opens, he has finished second, losing once in a sudden-death playoff.

Nine of the biggest money winners this year are here. They include the top man, Frank Beard, who has total winnings of $174,574.99, Ray Floyd, another three-time winner, Casper, Trevino and Masters champ George Archer. Only South African Gary Player, third on the money list, is missing.

Also on hand is U.S. Open titlist Orville Moody.

All told, in the field are 17 players who have won 38 of the events on the 1969 tour.

EASTERN'S SPEED TOO MUCH FOR MURRAY STATE

"We just couldn't cope with Eastern's great speed and with Jimmy Brooks, who is one of the finest backs ever to play in the OVC," Murray Coach Bill Furgerson said of Murray State's 34-13 loss to Eastern, Saturday.

"We played them on even terms the second half, but we let them get too far out front the first half to ever catch up," Furgerson continued.

Eastern scored two quick touchdowns the first quarter and two just before the end of the first half for a 28-7 lead at half time. Murray cut the margin to 28-13 early in the third quarter but could get no closer. Eastern added two field goals late in the game.

Brooks had a field day against the Racers, rushing for 188 yards and a touchdown and catching 2 passes for 116 yards and a TD. He also returned two kickoffs for 37 yards.

Murray fullback Rick Fisher also had a good day with 127 yards rushing and 5 pass receptions for 58 yards and a touchdown. One of Fisher's rushes was for 71 yards and set up Murray's first score.

Murray had 445 yards total offense in the game and took over the OVC lead in that department with an average of 377.1 yards a game. The Racers also maintained their lead in passing offense with 231.0 yards a game.

Defensive star for the Racers was linebacker Frank Head who had 17 tackles and 9 assists. Tackle Jim Wilson had 10 and 4 and tackle Dave Ford 8 and 7.

The Racers will play Austin Peay at Murray Saturday to close out their home season. Austin Peay has won the last five game between the two, most by big scores. Last year the Governors bombed the Racers 56-35. The only other Murray loss last season was a 21-20 one to OVC champion Eastern.

UNDERGOES SURGERY

BOSTON (UPI)—Defenseman Ted Green of the Boston Bruins, who suffered a fractured skull in a pre-season stick fight with Wayne Maki of the St. Louis Blues in a pre-season fight, is expected to visit Boston in about two weeks for further medical examination and surgery.

Atlanta Wins 4th In Row

By United Press International

The Atlanta Hawks ran off their fourth consecutive victory and remained in first place in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association Wednesday night as they defeated the Boston Celtics, 128-121, despite a 39-point performance by Emmette Bryant.

The Hawks, who shot 59 per cent from the field, were led by Lou Hudson with 37 points and 21 points each from Joe Caldwell and Jim Davis. Their record is now 7-3.

Bryant enjoyed his highest scoring game as a pro as he canned 16 of 24 shots from the floor and seven-of-seven from the free throw line.

Baltimore overcame a 65-59 halftime disadvantage as Wes Unseld came off the bench to toss in 12 points in the third quarter and spark the Bullets to a 139-130 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers. Kevin Loughery and Earl Monroe paced the Bullets with 25 points apiece while Billy Cunningham led the 76ers with 37.

The Cincinnati Royals scored 14 straight points late in the third period and went on to defeat the sagging San Diego Rockets, 133-120, behind a 33-point performance by Oscar Robertson. The Rockets, who have lost eight of their nine games, were led by Jim Barnett with 22 points.

Vanderbilt Picked To Beat Kentucky Wildcats By Six

By STEVE SMILANICH UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—The presence of sturdy Steve Owens in the Oklahoma backfield is always a major concern to the opposition, but it's the return to top form of the Sooners' "other" Steve that's worrying the Missouri Tigers.

The "other" Steve in the Sooner lineup is versatile Steve Zabel, and those who know Oklahoma football best say young Zabel is every bit the pro-prospect that his more famous teammate is.

Zabel, a 227-pound tight end who is capable of playing either offense or defense, is expected to see plenty of action when the Sooner and Tigers clash Saturday at Columbia, Mo.

Our pick is Oklahoma 28, Missouri 21 with Heisman Trophy candidate Owens carrying the load.

Unbeaten and untested Ohio State, the nation's top-ranked outfit, should have an easy time with Wisconsin Coach Woody Hayes' Warriors should pick up their 20th consecutive win by beating the Badgers, 40-6.

Will Not Stumble

Second-ranked Texas and No. 3 Tennessee, both marching toward post-season bowl outings, aren't expected to stumble this time around. The Longhorns should belt Baylor, 28-0, while the Volunteers should handle South Carolina by a 27-7 margin.

Southern California, bidding for an unprecedented fourth straight trip to the Rose Bowl, will remain on the path to Pasadena by drubbing Washington State, 40-7, with Clarence Davis expected to push his rushing yardage past the 1,000 mark this season.

Other major games look like this:

Utah 21, Wyoming 17—Coach Bill Meeks' Utes aren't meek when WAC title is up for grabs. Notre Dame 35, Pittsburgh 7—Irish depth and balance too much for Panthers.

Georgia 28, Florida 14—Bulldogs put bite on Jon Reaves and Gators.

Louisiana State 28, Alabama 7—Tigers seldom lose two in a row.

Purdue 33, Michigan State 14—Mike Phipps has hot hands against Spartans.

Also: Syracuse 13 over Arizona, Boston College 12 over Buffalo, Rutgers six over Connecticut.

Midwest: Michigan by 21 over Illinois, Indiana 3 over Iowa, Nebraska six over Iowa State.

South: Miami six over Navy, Florida State seven over Virginia Tech, Vanderbilt six over Kentucky.

In The Southwest

Southwest: Texas Tech seven over Texas Christian, Southern Methodist six over Texas A&M, Arkansas 20-6 over Rice.

Far West: Oregon six over Army, California one over Oregon State, Air Force 13 over Utah State.

In the pro ranks the New York Jets should continue their path to the American Football League's Eastern title by beating Buffalo, 28-14, and the Los Angeles Rams continue as the only unbeaten pro team by downing San Francisco, 21-14.

In other pro games: Miami six over Boston, Cincinnati seven over Houston, Oakland seven over Denver, and Kansas City 13 over San Diego.

Also: St. Louis three over New York, Detroit seven over Atlanta, Washington three over Philadelphia, Chicago six over Pittsburgh, Baltimore six over Green Bay, Minnesota three over Cleveland and Dallas 14 over New Orleans.

Baseball Is Alive And Well

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Baseball is alive and well, especially in the National League.

Inspired by the amazing accomplishments of the world champion New York Mets, the Chicago Cubs' futile struggle to hold first place and the birth of divisional play, National League fans established an all-time attendance record of 15 million during the 1969 season.

According to statistics released by the league office, 15,094,946 spectators jammed National League ball parks during the past year, an increase of 3,309,588 over 1968.

The Mets, who overtook the Cubs in their incredible pennant drive, led all National League teams with a total paid attendance of 2,175,373. The Cubs showed the biggest increase in attendance as they drew 631,584 more customers into Wrigley Field than in 1968.

Six teams drew over a million people, while the Cincinnati Reds fell just short with 987,991.

The Philadelphia Phillies were the only team in the league not to improve their attendance figure in 1969. The Phils drew 145,132 less fans than they did the previous year.

Dear Abby

Daughter's modeling job upsets parents

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Nancy, our 20-year-old daughter, lives at home and we trust her. She works as a salesgirl. Nancy recently brought home a 28-year-old man and introduced him as a commercial artist and photographer.

Last week-end Nancy told us that he was to pick her up at 4 a. m. as he wanted an early start to take pictures of her in the sunrise at a mountain site 70 miles away. They returned at 6 p. m. The young photographer spoke about three words to us and left hastily.

Nancy told us that during the day she learned that the man was married with two children. I told her we all should have been told this at the start.

When I phoned his residence, his wife answered, and to my surprise she knew all about the photography trip her husband had taken with our daughter, and was surprised that we were worried just because he was married. Later the young man phoned, obviously upset, and said he'd gone on many such professional trips with young ladies and this is the first time his motives were questioned.

I told him that our unmarried daughter had her reputation to think of, and also that I knew many commercial artists and photographers and never heard of any who operated in that manner. He indignantly said that he would never ask our daughter to pose for him again, and that we were way off base. Nancy agreed with him. We leave it to you, Abby. Were we "off base"? OLD HATS

DEAR OLD HATS: Probably. You could have at least waited to see the photographic results of this "trip" before assuming that there was hanky-panky involved. Also, for you to have called his wife shows an appalling lack of confidence in a daughter you "trust."

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a very conservative [moneywise] woman, for which I am grateful, but I think she overdoes it. She keeps records, and now she tells me that in the last 10 years we have sent wedding gifts to 37 couples, and we spent an average of $22.10 on each gift. She says that of these 37 couples to whom we sent wedding gifts, only 18 are still married to each other.

She says that from now on she is thru buying wedding gifts. Instead, she'll send a lovely card of "congratulations," and if their marriage lasts a year she will send an ANNIVERSARY present! What do you think of this?

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Suggest that she wait five years, and send them a silver from her head! [It's the "wooden" anniversary.]

DEAR ABBY: In nearly nine years of marriage, my husband has rarely told me he loves me. Yet I know he does. How do I know? Let me count the ways:

He appreciates my efforts as a wife, mother and homemaker. Altho he doesn't tell me in so many words himself, he brags me up to others. He never corrects me in public. He doesn't drink or gamble or make me jealous by being too attentive to other women in my presence. When he's wrong, he says, "I'm sorry." When I'm wrong, he doesn't remind me of it over and over again. He never says MY house or MY children—always "OURS."

I could go on and on. So what if he finds it difficult to put into words what he feels? There are many men to whom words come easily, but they are only "words."

My man has trouble articulating what he feels, but he expresses his feelings more eloquently by what he does.

If women would stop nagging their husbands by asking, "Do you love me?" and pay attention to how their men TREAT them, they wouldn't have to ask. They would KNOW.

Sincerely,
"LOVED" IN LOUISVILLE

A game that combines gin rummy and checkers stresses planning ahead — and being sufficiently nimble to recover when your plan has been thwarted. The playing cards and checkers are deployed on a regular checkerboard. You move checkers to capture cards and build sets or runs as in gin rummy. Optional decks give an educational twist and feature brain-straining over the new math, physics, English, history and other school subjects. The latter decks give parents a chance to match academic wit with off-spring.

A new aerosol foam hand cleaner was specifically formulated to remove wet or dry paint quickly and thoroughly while being gentle to the skin. It contains lanolin in addition to paint-removing ingredients and thus is capable of leaving hands soft and smooth, the manufacturer says.

A new attachment for lamp sockets makes bulbs last 20 times longer, the manufacturer says. Designed for use with bulbs up to 150 watts, the invention is especially useful where bulbs burn continuously or are hard to reach. The manufacturer also says the attachment saves on electricity costs by cutting down on voltage.

Double role for a drug

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A drug used to treat asthmatic children is now considered as a treatment in the inducement of weight gain and appetite, reports a physician at the University of California's Medical Center.

Patients taking it gained 8.4 pounds on the average during the two months of testing.

Experimental reader in new test

NEW YORK (UPI) — Julia Baker, Corey Baker and Earl J. Waggedorn, three well-known characters from the Julia television series, now are cast in a bookish role.

The new casting aims to help hundreds of thousands of disadvantaged youngsters to improve their reading ability.

They star between the covers of "The Money Walk," the newest booklet in the Relevant Readers series. The readers attempt to provide ghetto-area children with reading matter that is more meaningful to them than most regular school texts.

Dr. William Glasser, guiding light behind the reader series, is credited with spotting how the Julia characters relate to ghetto youngsters.

He is director of the Educator Training Center and a consultant to the Los Angeles public school system. The center publishes the readers.

It was while working with public school pupils who reside in disadvantaged areas of Los Angeles that he began to hear the children talk more and more about Corey and Julia and Earl.

He thought it amazing to see so many ghetto-area boys and girls identifying so strongly with what they saw on television. He immediately thought of ways to use this identification to help the youngsters in reading.

He received permission from the creator and producer of the television series to use the characters in a reader. Hal Kanter, the producer, was so enthusiastic that he went to General Foods Corp., sponsor of the show, for financial support.

The "Money Walk" tells how Corey and Earl start out one day to play and follow a mysterious trail of money new coins to an unusual adventure. At points in the text, the reader is asked — "What would you do?" This gets the reader even more involved, for he must answer before continuing the story.

Most of the first printing of "Money Walk" was put into use at the start of the school year. In Los Angeles it is being used in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades, where the students have only a third-grade reading level.

Jessie Ludwick Circle Meets At The Rogers Home

The Jessie Ludwick Circle of the First Presbyterian Church met Tuesday, November 4, at nine-thirty o'clock in the afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jessie Rogers.

Mrs. Vernon Campbell, chairman, opened the meeting with prayer and presided over a short business session. She also gave the devotion on "Judging By Outward Appearance."

The program was presented by Mrs. Carroll Guy. It was entitled "The Convenient Between Us" which was based on an article written by a Rabbi.

Mrs. Charles Moffett invited the circle to meet at her house on December 9 for a joint meeting with the other circles of the church.

Refreshments were served to the seven members present.

RX for poison control

BOSTON (UPI) — Proper poison prevention, according to the Massachusetts chapter of the National Safety Council, includes keeping poisons in their own containers — not putting them in soda bottles.

"Using pop bottles and other common food containers to store potential poisons is gambling with your family's safety," said Kenneth Brown, executive vice president of the Massachusetts chapter.

"People tend to forget that one particular bottle contains poison and not the cool drink they normally expect, for this reason, all harmful liquids — especially household cleaners — should be stored in their original containers," he said.

To make doubly certain poisons aren't accidentally taken, store them away from food supplies.

Policy On Problems Has Been Low-Key

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

As the Nixon administration policy toward domestic and foreign problems has developed, it has been low-key, marked by a lack of sloganizing and by attention to what the President considers realities. And as the President has sought to institute an era of consultation without confrontation, he has warned NATO allies eager for closer ties with the Communist East of the need for caution lest détente turn to delusion.

He has told the Asian allies that the United States intends to reduce its military posture in Asia but will support multilateral aid to assist their economic and social development.

The same elements were present in his long-awaited policy statement on Latin America, delivered before the Inter-American Press Association in Washington.

To Latin America he offered "no grandiose promises and no panaceas."

To the idealists the President's outline of the new U.S. role in Latin America was a disappointment.

When he declared that "we must deal realistically with governments in the inter-American system as they are," he virtually abandoned John F. Kennedy's conception of the Alliance for Progress as an instrument to promote evolution against revolution and to limit U.S. aid to those countries fostering popularly elected governments.

The reaction of most Latin American governments either was one of disappointment or skepticism.

Last June a special coordinating committee of Latin American nations had drawn up a 6,000-word document listing for the President Latin complaints against U.S. policy.

They wanted a U.S. market for the goods the United States was encouraging them to produce, investments tailored to their needs and not specifically to the benefit of foreign investors and they wanted development aid uncluttered by fine print and the demands of influential congressmen.

For these, the President, faced by a recalcitrant congress which had just cut $100 million from his request for Latin American aid, had few concrete solutions.

Glamor not needed

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Elmer Winter, president of Manpower, Inc., says his firm employs many part-time clerical workers in their 70s.

"Executives today are aware of the acute shortage of clerical help and aren't demanding glamorous secretaries anymore," he says. "They are settling for just secretaries."

Rock Music In Schools Supported

WASHINGTON, D. C., — The Music Educators National Conference, in a bold proposal to its members, today called on the nation's music educators to help bridge the generation gap by making rock and other youth music part of the school music program.

The MENC, which represents 58,000 music teachers in elementary and secondary public schools, colleges and universities, declared that it "not only accepts rock and other present-day music as legitimate, but sanctions its use in education."

Dr. Wiley L. Housewright, MENC president, said the conference speaks for music education in the nation and MENC "will provide leadership in asking for a change of teacher attitude and teacher acceptance" of music by the young. MENC is a national affiliate of the million-member National Education Association.

Calling attention to the role music can play in a troubled society, Housewright, who is dean of the School of Music at Florida State University, commented: "Music is a humanizing force that can unite us in a divisive age; that can heighten communication in an era when human relations cause so many problems."

In suggesting that youth music be taught in the classroom, Housewright noted that this is perhaps the first time that educators are being asked "to recognize the spirit of the younger generation by including youth's own expression in the curriculum."

Writing in the November issue of the Music Educators Journal, official magazine of MENC, Housewright asserts that traditionally the nation's youth have found musical expression through church choirs, marching bands, choruses, and orchestras.

But that's not enough anymore for hundreds of thousands of today's youth who have produced a new music — vibrant, original and honest — and more importantly, their own.

For example, "the president of MENC explains: 'Young people's music can be held at bay outside the institutions of society as it largely is at present, or it can be recognized as a vital and welcome new regenerative force and invited to assume a respectable position in the American musical culture.'"

Rock, soul, blues, and folk, Housewright declares, "cannot be ignored" because "there is much to be gained from the study of any musical creation."

and too unmusical," rock music—described as the "people's" art — has been forced into barrooms and pop festivals. At the same time, Bach, Brahms, Beethoven and Mozart have held center stage as the unchallenged "masters" in American music education.

But, argues Housewright, art is nonexclusive and he points out that "one musical art cannot repress another." Rock and Beethoven can coexist as necessary and significant communicative expressions," he adds.

"To delimit concert halls, schools, and colleges to a steady diet of the 'masters' is as absurd as permitting only Euripides, Shakespeare, and Moliere to be performed in the theater," Housewright charges.

In explaining that youth music is not a musical fad, Housewright contends that adults, for the most part, have not been listening. "It is a fact that youth music—and particularly rock—has caused a confrontation... between students and teachers, between young people and their parents and between youth music and the established musics of our concert halls and auditoriums," the music educator asserted, adding: "Rock music, I believe, is an issue that needs to cause no further generation gaps, no further confrontation between student and teacher."

Housewright said the MENC leadership feels that "young people have created a vital musical expression which cannot be ignored in the schools if music education is to be relevant and if we are to produce a discriminating, musically involved generation for the future."

DACCA, East Pakistan (UPI) — Pakistani soldiers fired for the second successive day Monday at battling mobs of Bengalis and Indian refugees.

The fighting has killed at least nine by official count but unofficial reports placed the dead at 25 or more. Soldiers patrolled the streets to enforce a curfew that has closed all schools and public places.

The violence erupted Saturday in a dispute over the use of the Urdu and Bengali languages in electoral forms.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

Q — I will be 65 in a few months, but do not plan to retire. As long as my health is good, I will continue operating my one-man business from my home. Will the fact that I am working affect my eligibility or benefits under Medicare?

A — Your coverage under Medicare will not be affected by whether you retire or continue working after 65.

You should, however, visit your social security office 2 or 3 months before you reach 65 and apply for social security benefits.

Your application will establish your eligibility for hospital protection under Medicare, which begins with the month you reach 65.

Remember, too, that you may be able to receive some social security cash benefits even if you continue operating your business. A person can earn up to $1,680 a year and still receive all his benefit payments.

While you are in the office applying for monthly cash benefits and Medicare's hospital insurance protection, you may also sign up for the medical insurance part of Medicare. This is the voluntary portion of Medicare that helps pay doctor bills and other medical expenses even if you don't go to the hospital.

It is to your advantage to sign up for this voluntary medical insurance before reaching 65 because a delay in enrolling means a delay in the start of protection.

Here is how it works. As you approach your 65th birthday, you also approach what the Medicare law calls the initial enrollment period. You can sign up anytime during the 3 months before the month you become 65, during the month you actually turn 65, and in any of the 3 months after you reach 65 — a total of 7 months.

If you enroll in the 3 months before the month you reach 65, your coverage will begin on the first day of the month you become 65.

People enrolling during the month they reach 65 will not have protection until the following month. And if they wait to enroll in any of the 3 months after they reach 65, the delay will result in more lost protection.

Anyone who fails to sign up for medical insurance during his initial enrollment period can sign up during certain general enrollment periods, which occur the first 3 months of each year. A person cannot sign up at all, however, if he fails to do so within 3 years of his first opportunity (the initial enrollment period).

The important thing for you to remember is the value of visiting your social security office 2 or 3 months before your 65th birthday. That way, you'll be sure to begin receiving the benefits you have earned.

Letter To Editor

Dear Mr. Williams:

A bill of great importance to Kentuckians will be introduced in the General Assembly in January 1970. It has been described as the single most important piece of conservation legislation ever to come before the General Assembly. The bill is concerned with wild river preservation, and I feel sure you will want to know more about it and to inform your readers.

The background is this: On October 8, 1968, Governor Lou E. B. Nunn wisely appointed an Advisory Commission on Wild Rivers to advise him which sections of streams in Kentucky should be protected in their natural state. The Governor said at the time, "The preservation of wild rivers is needed to afford the citizens of the Commonwealth an opportunity to enjoy natural streams, to attract out-of-state visitors to assure the well being of the state tourist industry, and to preserve for future generations the beauty of certain areas untrammelled by man." The Commission has made recommendations to Governor Nunn, and legislation will come before the General Assembly soon.

If you agree with Governor Nunn on this matter, and we hope that you do, you can play a vital role in preserving some sections of Kentucky streams by informing your readers of the facts, and by suggesting letters of support to Governor Nunn, and General Assembly members. We hope that you will write too.

Sincerely,

W. R. Holstein

KENTUCKY LEGISLATIVE REPORT

Taxes, insurance rates, collective bargaining for public employees, and narcotics on campus—all controversial and complex subjects sure to face the 1970 General Assembly—are in the limelight of interim legislative committee activity.

The Legislature's Interim Committee on Appropriations and Revenue has been told the 1970 Legislature will be asked to consider one of three proposals from the Department of Education, all of which would result in increased property taxes to be used for local school effort.

The Legislative Research Commission has challenged the authority of the Insurance Commissioner to issue a regulation which limits credit life insurance rates.

Representatives of several public employee groups have called for a state law to allow public employees to organize for the purpose of entering into collective bargaining with employers. A representative of the Kentucky School Boards Association opposed the idea during a hearing by a special Legislative subcommittee.

Testimony by state narcotics control officials during another special Legislative subcommittee hearing indicates that use of narcotics and dangerous drugs, particularly among college students, is continuing to increase in Kentucky.

James Melton, assistant superintendent for finance, in the Department of Education, told the Legislature's Interim Committee on Appropriations and Revenue that three proposals are being considered "to help local school districts increase local tax support for school."

One would eliminate the present property tax level for schools set in 1965 and let local school boards set new rates.

A second proposal would allow local school districts to increase tax rates up to 10 cents per $100 valuation in each of the next two years.

The third plan would be to re-introduce a proposal, which died in the 1968 General Assembly, giving local school districts authority to raise taxes 5 per cent in each of the two years following the legislative session.

The tax proposals were outlined after legislators called the 1970-72 legislative program of the Kentucky Education Association unrealistic. The legislators suggested that KEA and the Department of Education get together and set priorities in the proposed program, Melton said that is being done.

The LRC questioned a regulation issued by Insurance Commissioner Robert Preston which limits charges for credit life insurance to 75 cents per year per $100 of scheduled indebtedness. The regulation is aimed primarily at bank loans. Rates have been as much as $1.

The regulation also imposes a ceiling of 15 cents per year per $100 of debt on the amount charged for dismemberment benefits. These rates have been as high as 25 cents.

The LRC also wanted to know why the regulation does not take effect until Dec. 15, three months after it was issued, when the normal period between filing and effect is 30 days. The LRC has asked Preston to appear at its November meeting to explain.

A bill embodying the same provisions as the regulation is scheduled to be introduced in the 1970 General Assembly.

Only the school boards of the state opposed collective bargaining for public employees, including teachers, during a hearing held by a subcommittee of the Legislature's Interim Committee on Labor and Industry. Spokesmen for teachers, nurses, firemen, state and city workers and some university professors said many public employees will not negotiate with employers unless forced to do so by law.

There were some differences of opinion during the hearing between Dr. Marvin Dodson, of KEA, and Richard L. Miller, of the Kentucky Federation of Teachers. Miller wants a single collective bargaining law for all public employees, while Dodson wants a separate law for school teachers.

Proponents of a collective bargaining law for public employees presented proposals ranging from voluntary arbitration and penalties for strikes, to the right to strike except in emergency situations involving the health, safety or welfare of the community.

A narcotic subcommittee of the Legislature's Interim Committee on Health and Welfare was told that "10 per cent of the students" at colleges and universities in Kentucky use some form of drugs.

More men, more money, better law enforcement, better treatment and preventive education are necessary to meet the problem, not only at the college level, but in all society, drug control officials agreed during the hearing.

C. F. Hancock, assistant director of narcotic and drug control in the Kentucky Department of Health, told the subcommittee his division needs three new field agents and suggested that salaries be raised and requirements be lowered for the job. He said this would allow hiring of young men who can communicate with college students.

In other legislative activity, a subcommittee of the Legislature's Committee on Business Organization and Professions voted to recommend that the regulatory Board of Barbers and Cosmetologists be split into two separate boards, one to regulate each profession.

James T. Fleming, director of LRC, said facts and opinions concerning subjects under discussion by interim committees may be sent to the LRC, Room 301, State Capitol, Frankfort, 40601.

James Thompson of Harrods Creek.

This leaves the Republicans without an obvious candidate to succeed Nunn.

Among those who have been mentioned include Thomas Emberton, a Public Service Commissioner and close Nunn ally; U. S. Rep. M. G. Gene Snyder, the 4th District congressman, and state Parks Commissioner Robert Gable.

Buoyed by the election results, speculation as to a Democratic nominee will increase, but Lt. Gov. Wendell H. Ford must be considered the most likely nominee at this stage.

After Tuesday, the list of possible Democratic candidates for governor became too long to list here.

wreck with State Farm paid all my expenses, car mileage, motel for my wife and I, food, lawyer's fee, and we won the case. In 1963 I was on my way to Florida and was hit in the rear by a car without insurance. I came back home and Buddy Valentine adjusted to my satisfaction. No trouble.

I had insurance with Melugin and Holton. Hail damage to my home was settled by their adjuster at once.

Also hail damage to my car was settled by Holton and Melugin at once by their adjuster. In 1967 my wife had a wreck with a lady from Detroit. The other person was at fault and it was settled within one week by an adjustor from Paducah. No trouble at all.

On October 31, 1968 at 8:15 a fire broke out in my home and did quite a bit of smoke damage to the house. I reported to Holton and Melugin and on November 4, Mr. R. A. Bell, adjustor from Paducah came by and looked the house over, and in fifteen minutes my claim was settled beyond my expectations and complete satisfaction.

As I said in the beginning I have heard so much complaint from people on claims, that I wanted to write in defense of insurance companies I have had dealings with. All have been completely satisfactory and over my expectations.

All of these above claims have been in excess of $500. Sincerely,

Washington Window

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In this intensely image-conscious era, it is interesting to see how latter-day personal memoirs about President John F. Kennedy tend to show him in somewhat sharper, yet friendly focus than the first round of largely worshipful books by his intimates shortly after his death.

A current example is an interesting book by John Kenneth Galbraith — "Ambassador's Journal: A Personal Account of the Kennedy Years."

The public knows Galbraith generally as Kennedy's ambassador to India, Harvard professor, liberal figure, recognized economist and prolific author. But Galbraith was more than that. He was on close personal terms with Kennedy and his wife, Jacqueline, not only during the White House years, but during the 1960 campaign.

Constant Pain
Galbraith arrived in India to take up his ambassadorial duties in early April, 1961, but returned to Washington for consultation less than two months later. As he prepared to leave the nation's capital and return to New Delhi, his journal entry for June 20, 1961, includes this passage:

"I saw the President on three occasions. Once he was in the bathtub; once in bed; once we rode to the Shoreham (hotel) together for a speech. I think he is suffering a great deal from his back. Certainly it is more serious than he admits or wants to admit."

"The first of our sessions was in his bathroom. While sitting on a stool, I told him about some iniquitous goings-on. Every once in a while, the conversation was interrupted as he turned on the hot water with his foot. Bob Kennedy came in with one of his youngsters. . . I wondered if the boy were cleared by the FBI for we were talking about some very secret matters."

Minimize Ailment
This passage was interesting in that it involved a period when Kennedy, indeed, was in much pain because of a chronic back ailment. The pain put him on crutches for a time, and also led to long hours in hot baths and the heated White House swimming pool where he sometimes swam in the nude while carrying on business conversations with men ranging from cabinet officers to correspondents.

Yet, during the same period covered in Galbraith's journal, the White House was making every effort to minimize the extent of Kennedy's ailment. The first story about his being on crutches appeared at the end of his triumphant trip (from a crowd standpoint) with his wife to Paris, Vienna and London. Actually, the limited facts did not become available until the White House was faced with some rather hard-nosed news stories.

Many Americans simply refused to accept the fact that Kennedy for a time was on the verge of invalidism because of his back. In fact, during most of his White House days, he had to cope and learn to live with almost constant pain which his doctors described as a low-grade type comparable to a dull toothache.

Kennedy's grit and resourcefulness, plus the dedication of his staff, produced an entirely different image for the public — that of an inspirational, eternally youthful, physically active chief executive whose name was synonymous with tough football (which he had not played for ages before becoming President, although his two brothers and close associates were great advocates of backyard football.)

Quaker Maid And Tappan In Merger

The Tappan Company, Mansfield, Ohio based major appliance manufacturer, and Quaker Maid Kitchens, Inc., of Leesport, Pennsylvania, a custom kitchen cabinet manufacturer, today announced the merger of Quaker Maid and its affiliated companies with The Tappan Company had become effective.

Tappan, an 88 year old multi-plant manufacturer of a full line of appliances for the home, had sales in 1968 of $116,000,000. Quaker Maid, a 19 year old custom manufacturer with sales in 1968 of $7,250,000. The Tappan Company issued 233,000 shares of Common Stock in consideration for the acquisition.

Mr. Tappan stated that, as previously announced, Quaker Maid would continue with its present management and would continue to maintain its own channels of distribution under the Quaker Maid brand name.

It was indicated that the issuance of shares would create no dilution in earnings per share, and Mr. Tappan said, "in fact we look for some modest enhancement."

Burden For School Order On Boards

By FREDERICK H. TREESH

United Press International
On May 17, 1954, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that separate schools for black children, though supposedly equal to those for whites, were in fact inherently unequal. Defendant in that classic case, Brown vs. Board of Education, was quite obviously a school board.

After 15 years elapsed and neither the letter nor the spirit of the original law had been observed, the Supreme Court acted again. This time it set aside its "all deliberate speed" doctrine and told local school districts to integrate "at once."

The burden for implementing the new order once again will fall on school boards, initially the 33 Mississippi districts named in the case that reached the high court and ultimately in all places where segregation still is preserved by law or administrative act.

In a new book, "The Politics of Schools, A Crisis in Self-Government," Robert Bendiner says this about boards of education:

"Of all the agencies devised by Americans for the guiding of their public affairs, few are as vague in function as the school board, fewer still take office in such resounding apathy — and none ironically is capable of stirring up the passions of the community to so fine a froth."

Bendiner, a longtime political reporter now on the editorial board of the New York Times, found during a two-year study of school boards in 18 states that in the matter of integration they "are reeling under the responsibility for effecting a social revolution which by themselves they are powerless either to accomplish or to resist."

The result, in the North and West as well as in the South, he said, is that boards are in running warfare with the communities, state governments, the courts and the federal Office of Education.

In the South, Bendiner said that after the 1954 order local school boards received both the federal government's injunctions and the counter-orders from the Statehouse.

In the decade and a half since the Brown decision, Bendiner said, "School boards have been left to thrash about in legal quagmires from which they can only hope that their hired counsel will extricate them in good time and reasonable shape."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks opened mixed today in moderate turnover.

Although the news budget was without particular feature, belief among investors that President Nixon is committed to the eventual withdrawal of all U.S. combat troops from Vietnam still was a potentially bullish factor.

MOTORCYCLE AGENCY Available: Here's an opportunity for a sales and mechanically-minded person who wants to own and operate his own business. Triumph is the motorcycle that has earned the title of "the world's best motorcycle". Their reputation for performance, reliability and popularity is envied by other brands. Triumph dealers receive well planned national advertising support... as well as assistance with local advertising. For a relatively small investment, the return can be big, and personally satisfying. NOTICE

NEW IN U.S.A.

"Violin Spider" almost like the Brown Fiddler Recluse Spider, but can be almost any color. Was found in the U.S.A. last May. The bite can cause extensive skin damage, also painful severe ulceration of a large area; and might be fatal if not treated. Injection by the poisonous spider causes a change in the blood, and is more toxic than the Recluse Spider. A number of deaths have been reported.

Dr. Russell's Laboratory the U.S.C. Lab maintains probably the world's largest collection of anti-venom have, the serums.

We have a new method to kill spiders, roaches and other insects. No mess, no cleaning out cabinets, walk out of the house and we do the rest. Helps protect furs, clothes and carpet.
